As throughout the world, the COVID-19 pandemic has had a strong impact on the tourism industry in Latin America. Numerous jobs have been lost, facilities have been closed and visits to popular destinations have been halted or drastically decreased. However, certain attractions have maintained the visit, others have recovered quickly and various destinations and services have been able to transform themselves by adapting to new health requirements. In this webinar we will explore the different situations that are occurring in terms of the tourism sector in Latin America and its perspectives in the near future, with experts from all over the region. The presentations will be in Spanish or Portuguese.
